

Giustina Director for Special Collections and University Archives

bit.ly/Special-Collections-Director

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON

Libraries

Giustina Director for Special Collections and University Archives (SCUA)

What You'll Do

The Giustina Director for Special Collections and University Archives (SCUA) reports to Associate Vice Provost and University Librarian for Collections, Discovery, and Digital Strategy Le Yang and works closely with personnel in SCUA and across UO Libraries. As such, you'd be responsible for these key priorities—among other specific duties listed in the position description:

- Providing leadership and management for 12-16 librarians, archivists, staff, and student employees
- Developing strategy, policies, and procedures for all departmental functions including collection development, conservation and preservation, visiting scholar and fellowship programs, and more
- Setting and communicating clear priorities for SCUA in alignment with the UO Libraries strategic plan
- Recruiting, onboarding, and supervising employees with emphases on professional development and retention
- Participating in fundraising and grant-seeking strategies in collaboration with the vice provost and university librarian and development officers
- Serving on local and national committees and consortia; publishing papers and articles; and representing UO Libraries on and off campus at meetings and conferences to advance the field

Who We're Seeking

UO Libraries is looking for a dynamic and forward-thinking visionary to lead a skilled and cohesive team eager to push the leading edge of practice in the continuing development of programs, collections, and preservation practices in alignment with our UO Libraries strategic plan.

SALARY: $85,000-$135,000

bit.ly/Special-Collections-Director

About Special Collections and University Archives

The Special Collections and University Archives (SCUA)—a renowned rare book and special collections repository at the University of Oregon—has more than a million items including 75 Medieval and Renaissance-era codices and more than 100 incunabula; extensive early-modern and recent fine-press books; the papers of Ursula Le Guin and Ken Kesey; historic and contemporary photography holdings; collections of UO faculty, students, and administration documenting campus history, including extensive athletics archives; Oregon collections that support research on local Indigenous history and culture, early settler experience, and feminist intentional communities; personal papers of state and federal legislators focused on the environment and other regional issues; history of science collections; significant children's literature and science fiction collections; and many, many other categories.

About UO Libraries

SCUA and the UO Libraries are essential partners in the University of Oregon's educational, research, and public service mission.

Here, you'll enjoy:

- a respectful and collegial team atmosphere
- strong support for professional development including dedicated funding and time
- a flexible work environment that supports work-life balance

Ken Kesey, Jailhouse Journal

MISSION

Informing research and learning breakthroughs for Oregon.

VISION

We will be a model for the enduring positive impact that research libraries can have on their academic and civic communities.

9

FELLOWSHIPS
OFFERED ANNUALLY

1,000+

STUDENTS ATTEND
INSTRUCTION
SESSIONS AT SCUA
ANNUALLY

200,000

RARE BOOKS

Library.uoregon.edu/administration/strategic-design-2023-2028

About the University of Oregon

The University of Oregon has long served as an agent of change and innovation. For nearly 150 years, we've grown along with our state and region. Through it all, we've been steadfast in our focus on the future—generating big ideas in a beautiful place where we push the boundaries of knowledge and prepare our students for fulfilling, impactful careers and lives.

Life in Eugene

Located in western Oregon, two hours south of Portland, Eugene is a verdant and vibrant urban environment. About 90 minutes west of the Pacific Ocean and east of the Cascades Mountains, Eugene is nestled in the beautiful Willamette Valley. Walkable, bikeable, or skateable with 12 miles of riverfront paths, Eugene provides an extraordinary academic community surrounded by a quintessential college town bisected by the Willamette River. It's alive with music, culture, food, art, and just the right amount of quirky to keep things interesting.

In addition to five branches of the UO Libraries, Eugene's campus features renowned museums; Hayward field (host of numerous track & field Olympic trials and championship events and the Hayward Hall track & field museum); and extensive recreational and dining facilities.

APPLY

Learn more about the job duties and qualifications we're seeking and consider joining our team of inspired and mission-driven library professionals informing research and learning breakthroughs for Oregon!

bit.ly/Special-Collections-Director

Send queries to nbroadus@uoregon.edu

